Skiing and snowboarding have remained so far as the exclusively winter sports, as it requires vast mountainous surroundings and fine-quality snow. Now, at Skidome "SSAWS," which is to be open to the public this year in the city of Tokyo, Japan, city-dwelling ski and snowboarding lovers can enjoy all the fun of the winter sports with the least hassle of getting there and using the facilities.

Having conceived the name of the skidome from the coined initials of Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter, and Snow, this indoor Skidome SSAWS(pronounced, "Zausu") is equipped with the best-caliber skiing and snowboarding environment. Being the largest scale slope of its kind in the world, the Skidome is inspired by the "Scandinavian modern" and its images of forests, port towns, glaciers, its full-fledged sporting facilities include high-tech temperature cooling control, sophisticated artificial snowmaking system installed above the slopes, and efficient beltway and chair lifts, and cable TV information system to carefully control user traffic. Added to the convenience for the visitors from "after-school" and "after-work", the Skidome provides complete comfort and facilities for equipment rentals, ticketing and paying system, and restaurant and relaxation areas to meet the needs of the winter-sport goers in the metropolis.
